A space . . . sides, a ceiling/roof, a floor/ground . . . can engender a mood and draw us into the spirit it generates. Sometimes cavernous, sometimes small and tight, certain places help move us deep inside ourselves; others open our being to the vastness of the universe; genuinely spiritual places often do both.

The exhibit presents forty-three pieces of work by twenty-seven artists who share spaces they have encountered or created using photography or sculpture that evoke a sense of the spiritual.
